

HOUSE ACTS ON TRUST MESSAGE

Refers Recommendations to Two Committees.

DOCUMENT MEETS APPROVAL

President Wilson's Views on Trust Reform Draw Praise From Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, the Only Unfavorable Criticism Coming From Representative Murdock.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The atmosphere of "co-operation and accommodation" in the president's message, the reforms proposed expressed in terms of conservatism and the spirit of friendliness to supersede antagonism in dealing with big business which dominated the president's thoughts, roused expressions of approval from all sides. Few discordant notes were sounded in comments from members of congress who are to pass on legislation urged to prohibit monopoly and hold men of business within the law.

Before the plaudits of his audience had ceased and as the president was passing from the house chamber, where his successive appearances since last April have contributed to the nation's history, his utterances had precipitated action.

Representative Underwood, majority leader of the house, was the first to act.

As soon as the house reconvened after the joint session held to hear the president he offered a motion to refer to the interstate and foreign commerce committee the suggestion for the creation of an interstate trade commission and for a law empowering the interstate commerce commission to regulate the issuance of railroad securities, and to the committee on judiciary the proposals relating to legislation designed to supplement, but not to amend, the Sherman anti-trust act.

Will Begin Work at Once.

The motion was adopted and it was announced later that both committees would begin work at once and arrange for public hearings.

The action of the house in referring portions of the message to the interstate and foreign commerce committee, of which Representative Adamson is chairman, somewhat disturbed the program mapped out by the judiciary sub-committee, headed by Representative Clayton of Alabama, which already has held hearings and prepared a tentative draft of a trade commission bill.

Representative Clayton vainly had protested against any of the trust regulation program being taken from his committee and while Mr. Underwood was offering his motion to refer Mr. Clayton and Representative Carlin of Virginia stood at his elbow, pleading that he change his course of action.

Members of the house judiciary committee and members of the senate interstate commerce committee, headed by Senator Newlands of Nevada, conferred again on plans for expediting the bills to be submitted to congress.

Expressions on the message came freely from senators and representatives—Democratic, Republican and Progressive. The only unfavorable criticisms emanated from Progressives, Representative Murdock, the third party leader, asserting that the suggestions for the solution of the trust evil were "inadequate" and would render the trust evil more acute.

TAKES RAP AT NEW HAVEN

Senator Kenyon Speaks on Alaskan Railway Bill.

Washington, Jan. 21.—What has happened to the stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford system was held up to the senate by Senator Kenyon of Iowa as an argument for government ownership of railroads. The senator was speaking in support of the Alaskan railway bill.

"Is it any consolation to the widows and orphans holding New York, New Haven and Hartford stock, who are told that the dividend has been passed, to know that $50,000 of that company's funds went as a donation to the Republican national campaign fund?" he asked.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota insisted that government ownership was the first step in the direction of a socialistic movement and that it would end in building up a great political machine made up of railway employees, whose salaries would be much higher than are paid under present conditions.

MURDER VERDICT REVERSED

Jury That Found Physician Insane Cannot Convict Him of Crime.

Des Moines, Jan. 21.—The case of Dr. Harry E. Kelly, the Council Bluffs physician, convicted of the murder of Edward Stoerzing, a bartender in Des Moines, three years ago, was reversed by the Iowa supreme court.

Kelly was being taken to a sanatorium at Knoxville, Ia., when the killing of Stoerzing and Clarence Woolam, a deputy sheriff, in which he was implicated, took place.

The supreme court took the position that the jury which found the physician insane could not find him guilty of manslaughter.

DEATH COMES TO STRATHCONA

Canadian High Commissioner Dies in London.

WAS NINETY-THREE YEARS OLD

From His Eightieth Year, When He Sailed From Scotland for Canada, Donald Smith Led an Unusually Active Life—His Last Years in London Were as Busy as His Former Days in the Dominion.

London, Jan. 21.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, high commissioner for Canada, died peacefully in sleep. He had been practically unconscious since 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Lord Strathcona's death was due to prostration, the result of a severe attack of catarrh. He had been ailing, however, since the death of his wife Nov. 12, which proved a great shock to him.

Lord Strathcona's life spanned nearly a century and his active career a full three-quarters.

"The best way to live to an old age," he explained when found at work at his desk in London on his ninety-third birthday on Aug. 6, "is by not thinking about age at all, but just going on doing your work."

From his eighteenth year, when as Donald Smith, a sturdy Scot, he sailed for Canada, to his ninety-fourth year, which would have been completed next August, he lived up to his maximum of work. For the past six years he had been reported periodically as "about to resign" the post of high commissioner for Canada, but it was death and not his resignation which terminated his work.

With Hudson Bay Company.

His first years in Canada were those of an adventurous youth in what was then a real wilderness. The Hudson Bay company, which controlled practically all of British North America, engaged him as clerk and by successive stages he grew to be head of the corporation and he was its last resident governor. During this service, which was mainly in Labrador, he was threatened with snow blindness and had to make a forced march of 500 miles through the snow to Montreal for an operation on his eyes.

After thirty years in the Eastern wilds he became resident governor in Montreal and later accepted the offer of leading Lord Wolseley's expedition to the Northwest. Lord Wolseley said of him that his tact and confidence won the Indians of that whole region that his word was law among them.

Later he bent his energies toward opening the West and he is credited with having pressed the Canadian Pacific railway to completion across the continent. He also was a member of the Manitoba legislature and Dominion parliament for many years.

Widely Advertised Canada.

In 1896, fifty-eight years after he had first landed in Canada, Lord Strathcona was sent to London as high commissioner. When seventy-six years old the new commissioner set himself the task of making Canada better known in Europe.

It was rather uphill work, but Lord Strathcona's untiring energy won and he remained high commissioner long enough to find his Dominion the best known in the empire, drawing from British investors a goodly share of that capital which formerly went to the development of foreign countries.

These last years in London were as full of work as were the days in Canada. Unless some public engagement prevented it Lord Strathcona could be found at the office of the high commissioner in Victoria street every week.

From the vast fortune he accumulated Lord Strathcona often dispensed large sums for educational and charitable purposes and he also was a patron of many branches of sport.

CLARK REPLIES TO GOSSIP

Speaker States Why He Will Not Attend a Dinner.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Speaker Clark's declaration of an invitation to attend a Democratic dinner at Calvert hall, the historic home of Lord Baltimore, at which Secretary Bryan is to be a guest, stirred so much commotion that the speaker issued a characteristic statement.

Published reports connected the speaker's declaration with the presence of Secretary Bryan and echoes of the Baltimore convention. The speaker explained that he has declined all social functions except those he felt it necessary to attend as the speaker of the house of representatives.

"I have cut out all dinners and functions except those I feel under obligations to attend in my official capacity," the speaker said.

PRESIDENT READS SPECIAL MESSAGE

Outlines to Congress Program for Curbing Trusts.

Washington, Jan. 21.—President Wilson personally laid before a joint session of congress the fundamental principles of the Democratic administration's program for dealing with trusts and "big business." The president presented the case, he said, as it "lies in the thought of the country," reiterating "that private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable," and declaring that conscientious business men throughout the nation would not be satisfied until practices now deprecated by public opinion as restraints of trade and commerce were corrected.

"We are now about to write the additional articles of our constitution of peace," said the president, "the peace that is honor and freedom and prosperity."

Besides suggesting the scope of legislation the president made a personal appeal for an atmosphere of friendliness and co-operation in congress while handling the problem.

"The antagonism," he said, "between business and government is over. We are now about to give expression to the best judgment of America, to what we know to be the business conscience and honor of the land. The government and business men are ready to meet each other half way in a common effort to square business methods with both public opinion and the law."

The message dealt exclusively with business problems, asking congress to clarify the interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law, forbid interlocking directorates, and predicted a new era of prosperity, one that would "hearten the young men coming on," if congress did the duty the country so evidently wanted done.

BUSINESS EXPERT ENDS LIFE

Said to Have Suffered Heavy Financial Losses.

New York, Jan. 21.—Stephen T. Williams, known as the first business efficiency expert and who reorganized more than 400 of the largest business concerns in the country, committed suicide in his home here by shooting himself in the head. Mr. Williams was sixty years old. It is understood that in recent years he had suffered heavy financial losses and had been ill.

He says that during a heavy northerly gale the starboard engine broke down. The captain expected to proceed with the port engine as soon as the weather moderated.

CANAL PLEASES ALL VISITORS

Congressmen Impressed With Great Accomplishments.

SLIDES STILL CAUSE WORRY.

Owen Confident That Currency Bill Will Suit All When Given Complete Test—Ashurst of Arizona Sticks to Convictions Regardless of Party Affiliations—Yaks For Alaskans.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Every visitor to the Panama canal returns much impressed with the great work which the United States has accomplished. Perhaps it is because the stupendous achievement comes under the observation of the eye that such an impression is made, but it is a fact that the canal seems to be the biggest thing America has ever done. A great many big things have been accomplished by the United States in the past, but nowhere in such compact form and all within the vision of a person in a single day's journey as in case of the Panama canal.

Members of congress took advantage of the holiday recess to visit the canal. Several of them had never been there before, and these returned enthusiastic about the big ditch. Among them was Senator Walsh of Montana, who said that nothing had quite so impressed him as the canal in its present condition. "It is still a matter of conjecture," he said, "as to when the canal will be completed. It depends upon how long the slides continue. But there can be no question as to the success of the enterprise. It is a mere question of removing the earth as it slides down. A time will come when it will stop sliding or when there will be no more earth to slide, and then the canal will be ready for use."

Owen in Confidence.

Senator Owen is confident that the new banking bill will work out satisfactorily. Naturally when a man has had as much to do with such an important piece of legislation as that which reforms and reorganizes the currency system of a nation he is anxious to see it work properly. It would be strange if the bill were found even near perfect during the first few months while it is being tried out, but the Oklahoma senator does not believe that it will need to be amended in many particulars.

Always There.

It has been almost twenty-three years since Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire took his seat in the senate, and the interesting point about it is that he has occupied that seat continuously ever since. What I mean is that he has been in the senate when it was in session. It would be interesting to have a complete record of the few roll calls that Gallinger has missed. This would not show his continuous performance, for there are many days when there are no roll calls, but the Granite Mountain man is there just the same.

Ashurst Undaunted.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona is not to be frightened by anything that is fired at him in the way of criticism. He stands his ground and "goes back" when senators criticize his views. By striking out for himself and expressing his opinions rather freely he has encountered opposition on both sides of the political aisle. But he keeps going ahead, and he keeps Arizona in the limelight.

Yaks For Alaska.

Reindeer have been bred so successfully in Alaska that Congressman La Follette of Washington now proposes to have a band of yaks purchased and distributed in that faraway region. The yaks will furnish wool, which will make clothing for the natives. Very forcibly is presented to our government from time to time its duty to the natives of Alaska. They never had any land to sell as did the Indians, by which a fund could be created for their benefit, and it is incumbent upon congress to make suitable provision for them.

Repealed Resolutions.

Resolutions in the senate calling for expenditures must be referred to the audit and control committee. One day such a resolution had been introduced, and there was considerable sparring about it when Senator Borah made this observation: "It makes no difference as to which committee this goes to first. If it is perfected in the labor committee it will be reperfected by the audit committee as long as the distinguished senator from Mississippi, Mr. Williams, is chairman, because he entertains certain views in regard to state rights."

Blunder by Congress.

Sereno E. Payne of New York has never hesitated to express an opinion. So recently when an attempt was made to show that certain legislation passed years ago, which a pending bill proposed to correct, was passed for the benefit of corporations Payne burst forth with the declaration that "this legislation is to correct a blunder of congress. No one believes that it was inserted by corporations or by any intent. It was a blunder, and that is all there is to it."

And then the bill was passed without further discussion.

Cash and Credit.

"You deserve a great deal of credit, young man." "Maybe I do, but I always have to pay cash."

SENATOR CULLOM VERY ILL

Members of Family Fear Death Is Not Far Distant.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Weakened by the advance of age until his heart and lungs respond only faintly, but with his mental faculties as clear and alert as ever, Shelby Moore Cullom, former senator from Illinois, who has been constantly under the attention of medical advisers since before Christmas, is in a critical condition.

Members of his family expressed fear that death was not far distant, though their hopes were encouraged by the remarkable display of fortitude and recuperation which the venerable statesman has shown. He is eighty-four years old.

REFUGEES SPREAD OVER RESERVATION

General Mercado Defends Abandonment of Ojinaga.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 21.—Guarded by United States cavalrymen the 3,300 Mexican federal soldiers and their 1,639 women and children, camp followers, who were forced to seek asylum in this country during the battle at Ojinaga, Mex., were interned at Fort Bliss for an indefinite stay on the footing of prisoners of war.

Soon after their arrival the refugees were spread over the reservation, mixing beans with chili and making tortillas out of flour furnished by the American army.

In defense of his abandonment of Ojinaga and in answer to criticisms from Mexico City, General Mercado detailed his reasons for taking asylum in this country.

He charged General Pascual Orozco with cowardice and insubordination. He said Orozco repeatedly had robbed the federal provision train, had become arrogant, had refused to attack the rebels, had abandoned his own troops and had run away under fire.

General Mercado charged that General Ynez Salazar and General Antonio Rojas, volunteer commanders, were cowardly under fire and that they abandoned their posts as soon as the rebels appeared.

COAL MINES CLAIM 2,360

Every 100,000,000 Tons Produced Cost 429 Lives.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Every 100,000,000 short tons of coal produced in the United States in 1912 cost 429 lives in mine accidents, or a total of 2,360 lives for a production of 550,000 short tons of coal, according to a report just issued by the bureau of mines, department of the interior. This loss of life in proportion to the number of millions of tons mined, 4.29 per cent, is the smallest in the records available at the bureau. In 1907 it soared to 6.93 per cent.

The actual number of lives lost in 1912 was less than in any previous year since 1896, when 2,116 men lost their lives in and around coal mines. In 1907 the number of deaths reached 3,197.

The cardinal adds: "Everything offending modesty and morality is an attempt against the natural and divine laws and against the stability and prosperity of modern civilization."

Milwaukee Judge Hands Down Important Ruling.

DECISION MAY BE APPEALED

Circuit Judge Eschweiler Declares Law Is Violative of the Rights Secured by the Constitution and Conflicts With Religious Liberty Because It Tends to Halt Marriages.

Milwaukee, Jan. 21.—The Wisconsin eugenic law regulating the issuance of marriage licenses was held unconstitutional by Circuit Judge F. C. Eschweiler.

Among other things, the court said, the law which provides for a physician's certificate of health, including the Wasserman test, is violative of the rights secured by the constitution and that it conflicts with religious liberty because it tends to halt marriages.

The court disagreed with the recent ruling of Attorney General Walter C. Owen, who held that the law did not require the Wasserman test. "If the Wasserman test and others are not applied," said the court, "the doctor giving the applicant a clean bill of health would place himself liable to the law against perjury owing to his false statements."

The law is praised because of its movement toward suppression of sexual diseases, but is condemned because its enforcement is practically an impossibility. The physician's fee of $3 is held to be unreasonable.

The court held that if the state wishes to exercise its right for preventing undesirable marriages it should assume the burden of weeding out the unfit and thereby not cast upon the fit an unfair demand and thus materially impair an inalienable right.

The prayer of the plaintiff, Alfred Peterson, that the law was class legislation by demanding tests from men only, is refused. The judge said that this is a legislative right.

Judge Eschweiler contended that the physician making the tests must make full and complete investigation himself, according to the wording of the law. The matter is expected to reach the supreme court.

St. Paul, Jan. 21.—August H. Taverna, who was killed by his wife just before she turned her weapon upon herself and committed suicide, expected death at the woman's hands and ten minutes before the shooting he told his fellow employees of his fears that his wife would kill him.

At the store of G. Sommers & Co., where he was employed as a driver, Taverna declared that he might be going to his death, but he set out with a jest and a smile. As he drove away he told the other men he preferred to die rather than show a "yellow streak."

Within ten minutes he had been mortally wounded by the woman, who then turned her weapon upon herself and lay dead within a few feet of her husband. Taverna died in the hospital a few hours after the shooting.

The double tragedy ended eleven months of wedded life, fellow employees and roomers at the Taverna home, had been marked by many quarrels.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—Divergent views as to the future of political parties in the United States were expressed here by United States Senators Albert B. Cummins of Iowa and Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, in addressing the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Senator Cummins, who led the discussion, declared that the future will bring into existence a great number of parties divided on minor questions, none of which will be in the majority in congress.

Senator Clapp, on the other hand, declared that in his opinion there always will be two great political parties and that in the future "one party will be based on special privilege and the other on general welfare."

REVIEWS WORK OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

APPOINTS HIS COMMITTEES

A Permanent Secretary Has Been Employed for this Year to Further Work of Club

In his address before a very large attendance at the annual meeting of the Brainerd Commercial club, President Carl Zapffe reviewed the work of the club for the year 1913. Mr. Zapffe said:

A great deal was accomplished unostentatiously and when considered in resume, it shows how important a factor a well organized commercial club is in the progress of a community. In fact, it is a necessity which even the most severe critics can not belie, and it behooves all public spirited merchants and professional men to lend a hand, and, when called upon, to put their shoulder to the wheel for the benefit of the city at large.

The expense of keeping up the Commercial club is heavy, and the work done by it has been covered entirely by subscription and by voluntary services.

There were no social features involving an expense of the club's funds during 1913 other than the reading material and the upkeep of the billiard tables.

The club entertained Prof. J. S. Young of the University of Minnesota, who gave addresses at a church, the high school and the club rooms; May or Nye, of Minneapolis, who addressed the members at a banquet; representatives of the Duluth Commercial club who viewed Brainerd and vicinity.

The club made a special investigation of the light, gas and water situation in the city and through its committees aided in bringing these matters before the city council. The light question has been settled by the council. The gas question is nearing settlement and the water situation is being carefully studied.

Perhaps the most important work done was procuring the improvements at the railway station and the addition of the new train service, "The Merry Widow," and only through the vigilance of the railway committee was the service retained.

University Week was again undertaken and carried through successfully. The University Extension gave lectures on corn and cattle raising and arrangements have been made for a one week's Farmers Course in March, 1914.

One of the most important steps taken by the county towards developing its lands was when through the efforts of this club the county commissioners of Crow Wing county engaged a county agricultural agent, the legislature establishing this as one of the direct results of the Northern Minnesota Development association initiative. Crow Wing county belongs to the association and subscribes. To assist this agent in his work and to benefit the community, special lecturers from the Agricultural College Extension Division addressed the farmers and business men and as a result, a fund was started by subscription to establish a cooperative market in Brainerd under the direction of the farmers themselves.

An effort is now being made to have the commissioners turn the former county poor farm into an agricultural experiment farm for raising pure seed, breeding better stock and showing improved agricultural methods, a much needed institution for the county.

The club through committees, took an active part at the state capital, to bring about the success, or defeat, of several pieces of proposed legislation which had a vital bearing on this city and county.

A delegation to Bemidji made sure of the selection of a Brainerd man as president of the Northern Minnesota Development association and secured the very important December convention of the association for 1914 for Brainerd.

During the year the State Federation of Women's clubs met at the club rooms and many other organizations held their meetings there from time to time.

During the year 1914 the large district convention of the Swedish Lutheran church will convene in Brainerd at the club's bidding.

Much attention was given to road improvement work, many inquiries were answered, information about Brainerd distributed and resolutions endorsed, all of which tended to keep Brainerd in the foreground with the public.

A prominent secretary has been employed for the year 1914, who will devote his full time to the carrying out of the club's work.

President Zapffe has announced his entire committee appointments as follows:

House and Entertainment—D. C. Peacock, Sr., F. G. Hall, F. E. Stout, K. H. Hoorn.

HORSESHOEING AT CORNELL.

Farriers Will Be Taught Higher Principles of the Trade.

A course in horseshoeing is an innovation announced by the trustees of Cornell university at Ithaca, N. Y. All horseshoers of the state are invited to enter without charge.

The course will be given by the farrier's department of the State College of Veterinarians. The last legislature made an appropriation for equipment.

"The purpose," said Director Moore, "is to offer horseshoers an opportunity to acquire a more thorough knowledge of the principles of horseshoeing. Besides setting shoes it is important that these men should be familiar with the anatomy and physiology of the horse's foot and the danger of certain infections, such as tetanus or lockjaw."

"One hour each day will be given to lectures and the rest of the time to practical work in the shop. The course will run for six weeks, and if there is a demand for it it will be repeated."

TO PLAN FOR CONVENTION

United Commercial Travelers Council of Brainerd to go After 1915 State Meeting

A COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

To Seek the Support of the Brainerd Commercial Club, Booster Club and Others

The Brainerd Council, No. 545, of the United Commercial Travelers of America, has entered the lists to secure the next state convention of the order in Brainerd. This 1915 state meeting would bring thousands to the city and be the means of having a lot of money spent in the city, for the travelingmen are proverbial jolly good fellows and when they celebrate nothing is too good for them.

The convention committee appointed at the council meeting by J. W. Schlenker is composed of Paul G. Clarkson, John A. Hoffbauer, Edwin Anderson and O. H. Johnson.

Measures will be taken to secure the support of the Brainerd Commercial club, the Booster club and other organizations of the city in order to land the convention and Brainerd Council will send a large delegation to Mankato this year to make a bid for the 1915 state meeting.

O. H. Johnson recently transferred his membership to the Brainerd council. He is the popular proprietor of the Ransford hotel and a most public spirited citizen.

At the next meeting of the local council the initiatory ceremonies will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, February 21. The evening meeting will be devoted to a social session to which all members are asked to invite their wives or sweethearts. This social session will begin at 7:30 P. M. and a luncheon will be served.

Do you begin to cough at night, just when you hope to sleep? Do you have a tickling throat that keeps you awake? Just take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It will check the cough and stop the tickling sensation at once. Does not upset the stomach, is best for children and grown persons. H. P. Dunn, druggist.—Adv. mwf

FINE THEATRE FRONT

Columbia Theatre Has Artistic and Splendidly Designed Front on Laurel Street

Today carpenters took down the temporary wood work from the front of the Columbia theatre and revealed in all its beauty the splendid designs, has reliefs, modeling, painting and designing of the Laurel street front. The building is a distinct addition to the business section of Brainerd and J. M. Hayes, the owner, is to be commended for the public spirit he has shown in putting up such a fine building.

Women and Wet Feet

Cold and wet feet are a dangerous combination especially to women, and congested kidneys often result. Back-ache, urinary irregularities and rheumatic fevers are not unusual results. Foley Kidney Pills restore the regular and normal action of kidneys and bladder and remove the cause of the trouble. Contain no habit forming drugs. H. P. Dunn, druggist.—Adv. mwf

His Chance at Last.

The busybody was circulating a petition calling upon the powers that be to abolish something or other.

"It will be presented at the next meeting," he said, "and a copy of it will be printed in all the papers."

The struggling young author made haste to sign.

"What's it all about?" asked a friend.

"Oh, I don't know," said the struggling young author, "but I couldn't resist the temptation to see my name signed to something that will appear in print."—Judge.

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look Mother! If Tongue is Coated, Cleanse Little Bowels With "California Syrup of Figs"

Children love this "fruit laxative" and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv. mwf

NEW HIGH SCHOOL FOR LITTLE FALLS

IT COST $80,000 UNEQUIPPED

Building of much Interest to Northern Minnesota Editors During Recent Convention

Little Falls has just completed and occupied its big new high school building and at the recent meeting of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association it was one of the points of interest that attracted the visitors and impressed them with the thought that Little Falls was progressive in educational matters as well as along other lines.

The building rises three stories above the foundation to a flat roof the plain lines of which are relieved by stone trimmings, the building being faced with red brick and trimmed with Bedford sandstone, and cost $80,000 without equipment. The building is laid out in the shape of a "U" with the gymnasium and assembly room occupying the center. Thus each class room is lighted from one side and the big assembly room is lighted by windows on the east and by skylights the center of the "U" being but two stories in height, the ceiling of the assembly room extending above the level of the third floor.

On the right side of the right main entrance on the first floor is located the conservatory. This room will be used for the housing of plants for use in the botany and agricultural courses. The biological room, to be used this year by the normal department, the agricultural laboratory, agricultural demonstrating room and agricultural storage room are located along the south wall of the first floor. The agricultural laboratory is fitted with tables with acid proof tops and each room is provided with the necessary cupboards and shelves.

Large toilet rooms are provided on the first floor and smaller ones on each of the other floors.

The manual training department is housed on the first floor in the rooms at the north side of the building. A lumber room with racks for lumber occupies the northeast corner. Next to it is the machine room in which is located the lathes, saw, jointer and other machines. Next to the machine room is the bench room and facing the front of the building is the finishing room. Each boy will have an individual locker in which to keep his unfinished work.

The gymnasium floor is 50 by 60 feet with space on the north side 15 by 60 feet for spectators. In order to give the gymnasium the proper height the floor is placed on a level with the basement floor. A girls' dressing room and an apparatus room open off the gymnasium on the south side. A boys' dressing room is located at the opposite side of the gym. The dressing rooms are provided with showers and lockers.

The superintendent's office, and which will be used by the board of education, is located in the front of the building on the first floor between the two main entrances and opening off is a stock room, safety vault for records, etc.

The assembly room is on the second floor, and is the largest auditorium in the city. It is provided with 285 school desks, and on special occasions will seat a thousand people. It is 60 x 80 feet with a rostrum or stage 22 x 30 feet with dressing rooms at right and left.

Cloak rooms for boys and girls, rest room for the use of the faculty and indisposed students, chemistry laboratory, lecture rooms, and physics laboratory are all provided for, the latter being equipped with tables with acid proof tops, etc.

The mechanical drawing room and blue print room are on the second floor, as are also the library, history and language rooms, each class room being provided with a case and wardrobe.

The English rooms, mathematics, commercial department and home economics are on the third floor.

The building is wired throughout for electric lighting and every room and hall is fitted with lights. The conduit system was used in the wiring and neat brass fixtures were used. The building is also wired for a private phone system and eight phones will be installed besides the one in the office. The building is piped for a vacuum cleaning system. An electric clock in the general office automatically rings bells on each floor at the beginning and end of each period. Each room is wired for a clock to be connected with the big clock.

The temperature in every room will be regulated automatically by the Johnson heat regulating system. An instrument is located in each room which will automatically close or open the valves of the radiators.

The boilers are in a room at the back of the building and outside of the main structure. The steam will be supplied by large twin boilers. A fan room opens off each end of the boiler room. Air from the fan rooms will be forced through the ventilating system and distributed over the entire building. The air in the fan rooms passes over steam coils and over humidifier and its temperature is regulated automatically so that the air which is forced to the different rooms will reach them at the proper temperature. All heating and ventilating pipes are carried in a six and a half foot sub-basement.

INSANE SAVED FROM ASYLUMS

A State Law Which Provides For Home Treatment.

EARLY CASES ARE PAROLED.

Under the Hospital Out Patient Department System Convalescents Are Permitted to Return to Their Families, Where They Are Subject to Professional Observation.

A bill was passed, practically unnoticed, in the closing days of the last session of the New York legislature which, says Dr. Thomas W. Salmon in the Survey, marked as important a step in the care of the insane as has been taken in a generation. The bill, which is now a law and in effect, permits each state hospital for the insane to establish an outpatient department.

It also opens a way for efficient treatment in the earliest stages of persons ill with mental diseases and at the same time makes it possible to discharge convalescing patients who previously had to be kept from friends and families because it was impossible to provide skilled observation and advice after they had left the hospitals.

The records of 5,000 patients admitted for the first time to New York state hospitals for the insane in 1911 show that in nearly a third of all cases the mental diseases had existed at least a year before admission.

Minor Mental Ailments.
The treatment of mental diseases in outpatient departments is not an untried experiment. There are already three such clinics in New York and a very few widely scattered in other states.

In these clinics come cases rarely seen by physicians in institutions for the insane—a child brought by a mother whose quick intuition has told her that he is "different" from the others; a man who has found his accustomed work grown suddenly difficult and is conscious of loss of memory and rapidly rising irritability; a depressed old lady who realizes that some small misfortune cannot be wholly responsible for the new anxiety which is dominating her life; the anxious wife of a man who "was always a good husband, although he drank a bit," but lately has become morose and suspicious and has lost four jobs in quick succession because "people are all against him;" the brother of a patient in a state hospital who anxiously inquires if it is "absolutely sure" that he will become insane because his brother did and who has worried so much about it that he can think of nothing else.

It would be unfortunate, however, to give the impression that early diagnosis and early treatment insure recovery in all cases of mental diseases or even in the greater proportion of them. There are several large groups of mental diseases in which early diagnosis and treatment are quite powerless to influence in any way an inevitably unfavorable outcome.

Under Physicians' Watchful Care.
With out patient departments able to extend into the communities the skilled observation and care now possible only in hospitals, many patients can be safely paroled, and at the expiration of six months or a year a large proportion of them permanently discharged.

The out patient departments can be operated as integral parts of the hospitals to which they are attached and the physicians, being supplied with all the clinical notes of patients during their hospital residence, can make treatment absolutely continuous. Under such circumstances many hundreds of patients can be paroled annually, with the understanding that regular visits, at first frequent—even daily and later less frequent, will be made to the out patient departments where the physicians can advise both patients and relatives and closely observe the progress of the mental disease.

These are some of the immediate needs which out patient departments of the state hospitals will meet. It is difficult to predict just what the future development of the clinic for mental diseases will be and yet, so Dr. Salmon believes, it seems not too visionary to conceive of their growth into centers of population in which many cases of mental disease will be successfully treated without the necessity of removal from their homes.

PNEUMONIA DON'TS.

The health bureau of Philadelphia has issued a list of "don'ts" to reduce the high death rate of pneumonia. "Pneumonia," says a special bulletin of the bureau, "causes more deaths at this season of the year than any other single disease." The "don'ts" given are as follows:

Don't poison yourself with dirty air by staying in poorly ventilated, overcrowded, foul smelling places. Fresh air does not cause pneumonia or any other disease, but is necessary for good health in winter as well as in summer.

Don't injure your health and lower your vitality by overeating or excesses of any kind.

Don't indulge to excess in alcoholic liquors. People who are addicted to alcohol reduce their resistance to pneumonia and increase the liability of death from it.

Don't sleep with the bedroom windows closed. Night air is purer than day air. It contains less dust and fewer germs.

Don't sit around with wet feet or with wet clothing on.

Don't let any one who has pneumonia pass it on to you. Treat pneumonia as a catching disease.

Don't forget that good general health, maintained at a high standard by right living, is the best possible safeguard against pneumonia or any other infectious or contagious disease.

Her Jail Experience.

"You admit that you have been in prison?" said the cross examining lawyer sternly.

"Yes, sir," answered the shrinking young creature.

"Now, will you please tell the court whether you were there as a criminal, a suffragette or an investigator for a reform association?"—Buffalo Express.

Colds to be Taken Seriously

Intelligent people realize that common colds should be treated promptly. If there is sneezing and chilliness with hoarseness, tickling throat and coughing, begin promptly the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It is effective, pleasant to take, checks a cold, and stops the cough which causes loss of sleep and lowers the vital resistance. H. P. Dunn, druggist.—Advt. mwf

A Difference in Working Hours

A man's working day is 8 hours. His body organs must work perfectly 24 hours to keep him fit for 8 hours work. Weak, sore, inactive kidneys can not do it. They must be sound and healthy active all the time. Foley Kidney Pills will make them so. You can take them into your system without good results following. H. P. Dunn, druggist.—Advt. mwf
